GUIDE TO THE NATIONAL REGISTER CRITERIA FOR EVALUATION

The National Register of Historic Places Criteria are designed to determine and evaluate the significance of historic resources within the proper historic context. There are four main categories which are listed below, followed by a brief description. Please keep in mind that while a single property must qualify under at least one category, it may be eligible under more than one criterion.

CRITERIA:

The quality of significance in American history, architecture, archaeology, and culture is present in districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects that possess integrity of location, design, setting, material, workmanship, feeling, and association, and:

- A That are associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; or
- B That are associated with the lives of persons significant in our past; or
- C That embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction; or that represent a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction; or
- D That have yielded, or may be likely to yield, information important in prehistory or history.

CRITERIA CONSIDERATIONS:

There are seven Criteria Considerations listed on the National Register Nomination Form which are applicable to cemeteries, birthplaces, graves of historical figures, properties owned by religious institutions or used for religious purposes, structures that have been moved from their original locations, reconstructed historic buildings, properties primarily commemorative in nature, and properties that have achieved significance in the last fifty years. Typically, the types of properties listed above would not be considered for the National Register but may qualify under one of the criteria considerations. If your property is one of the above, please fill out the preliminary assessment form but attach a brief description of the property type and explain its significance.

A BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES:

The National Register of Historic Places is a program designed to identify, recognize, and to some degree, protect significant historic resources. Listing on the register does not restrict the rights of property owners, nor does it prevent destruction of historic properties, but there are benefits to both the private owner and the general public.

The National Register DOES:

- Identify and evaluate the significance of buildings, structures, sites, objects, and districts according to established National Register criteria.
- Make the public aware of historic resources by documenting their importance.
- Provide information about historic resources that can be used as a planning tool for federal, state, local, and private agencies.
- Make owners of historic properties eligible for certain grants for preservation projects, when such funds are available.
- Enable income-producing depreciable historic properties to use tax incentives when rehabilitated according to the Secretary of the Interior's Standards, subject to approval.
- Expedite the review of federal undertakings that could affect historic resources and attempt to mitigate adverse effects on identified historic properties.
- State law (SDCL 1-19A-11.1) provides that the State Historic Preservation Officer reviews and comments on funded or permitted projects of state or municipal governments that may impact properties listed in the National or State Registers of Historic Places.

The National Register DOES NOT:

- List properties if the private owner, or majority of private owners, object to the listing.
- Limit or restrict the rights of property owners to use, develop, or sell their historic properties.
- Require that historic properties be maintained, repaired or restored.
- Require that historic properties be open to the public.
- Provide markers or plaques for listed properties. Owners may purchase plaques and markers if desired.
- Automatically facilitate local landmark designation or local district zoning.
- Automatically stop federal undertakings that could affect historic resources.
- Assure that owners of historic properties will receive grants, tax benefits, or other funding incentives for preservation work.
